Details

Thoroughness in the smallest details decides the fate of the greatest things.

Thoroughness in construction will decide the wearing qualities of an automobile.

You will find in the Chevrolet a car of through-and-through solidity of construction.

Each single part has been carefully planned by a trained engineering corps. Each minute detail has been accurately machined by expert mechanics. Each finished car has been thoroughly tested in well equipped shops.

The stamp of thoroughness is marked on every Chevrolet car.

It is no wonder that this car gives real satisfaction to its owner.

"Come on Over, See My Corn Fall Off!"

"I Put 2 Drops of 'Gets-It' on Last Night—Now Watch—"

"See—all you have to do is to use your two fingers and lift the corn right off. That's the way 'Gets-It' always works. You just put on about 2 drops. Then the corn not only shrivels, but loosens from the toe, without affecting the surrounding flesh in the least. Why, it's almost a pleasure to have corns and see how 'Gets-It' gets them off in a hurry and without the least pain. I can wear tight shoes, dance and walk as though I never had corns." "Gets-It" makes the use of foot-resting, bandaging, blisters, tape, plasters and other things not only foolish, but unnecessary. Use this wonderful discovery, "Gets-It," for any sore or hard corn or callus. It is the new, simple, easy, quick way, and it never fails. You'll never have to cut a corn again with knives or scissors, and run chances of blood poisoning. Try 'Gets-It' tonight. "Gets-It" is sold everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent on receipt of price by E. GERMAN ARRESTED AT KETCHUM

"That Was a Quick Funeral That Corn Had With 'Gets-It'."

William N. J. Wegner was arrested at Oxford county Wednesday May 23, and brought to Portland by U. S. deputy marshal Harmon and was taken into custody by order of President Wilson on the ground that his presence in the Maine district is to the danger of the peace and safety of the United States; it was learned today. He will be held here, without bail, until further orders from the President.

Wegner, who is about 30 years of age, is wanted in connection with explosives which caused the destruction of a Canadian munitions factory.

Deputy Sheriff Davis of Bethel assisted in making the arrest. Wegner, who was working on a log drive, told the officers he knew why they wanted him. He has been employed by the Berlin Mills Co. since the fourth day of May, and went to Newry from Boston. He was an expert at handling dynamite. With others he was at one time under arrest in Canada, but managed to make his escape to the States. An atlas was among his effects.

We want to do your printing. Estimate cheerfully given. All work of a public nature will be given a free trial. We print as you want it and when you want it.

PUBLIC SAFETY MEASURES

An appeal for recruits for Co. D, The Second Maine Infantry is being recruited to war strength. This requires the enlistment of about 900 additional men. This regiment will be taken, some time in August, to a training camp in some other section of the country and given intensive training throughout the winter, and in all probability will be among the first regiments to be sent across the Atlantic and to the fighting line. The Second Infantry is composed of volunteers. There is a certain distinction in being recognized as a volunteer in this war, as in every war. The men who volunteer for service and are not subjected to draft are given due credit for the service they render. In September there will be something like 60,000 young men in Maine drafted for service. So long as they have to go into the army anyway, doesn't it appeal to all of them that it would be wiser and better for them to volunteer when the nation stands in need of just such service?

The Second Infantry has this to recommend. The regiment had six months' service on the Mexican border and so may be called a veteran regiment. Its officers have been well schooled. They have been much from experience and this means that they are better qualified than some National Guard organizations to care for the comfort of their men. In addition to this the Second Infantry is composed of the finest products of Maine. Many of its companies were recruited in the smaller cities and towns of the State, and a large number of its enlisted men are from Maine schools and colleges. The Maine boy who enlists in this regiment will be with those from his own State wherever he goes, and Maine people will be particularly interested in all that this regiment does and will be sure to look after it and its interests when it is called into active service. The Second Infantry officers are now appealing to the newspapers to help them bring this regiment up to war strength as quickly as possible. Recruiting station for Co. D is now open at Norway as elsewhere throughout the state. There should be an immediate response to the appeal for recruits for this Co. The quicker it is filled up the better it will be fitted for the important work it is sure to be called upon to perform. Let every citizen who can do so, help in this undertaking. Maine has never yet failed to meet the demands put upon her by the nation in time of need. Her Civil War record was glorious and has been the pride of Maine folks ever since. Let the youth of Maine show that the spirit of '76 and '61 still prevails in a State whose soldiers played such a gallant part in the nation's wars in the past, as they certainly will, if they have the opportunity, in this, the greatest war of all history.

Sixty-two Men for Company D

Second Infantry
Capt. James W. Hanson, Co. D, has received orders to bring the company up to war strength of 150 men. Sergt. Lester Witham, recruiting officer for Norway, requires sixty-two able bodied men. The armory is open every day and Sergt. Witham, Private George Gurney or Private Leslie H. Coburn will be on duty ready to talk over the situation. A preliminary examination is given here and recruits are sent to Augusta in squads of five or more.

Sergt. Witham gives the last call before registration and says, "It is the duty of every able bodied man who has no dependents, to enlist at once while he can choose a company that would be to his liking. Dependents men can have no choice in the matter of assignment but go wherever the officer higher up dictates. The volunteer is in more direct line of promotion, consequently receives broader military advantages. He receives pay. Enlisted men receive higher wages than the average laborer. In addition they are supplied with suitable clothing, healthful food, expert medical attention without expense, and many luxuries not obtainable by the average wage earner under the excessive high cost of mere existence. Company D, now stationed at Saco is one of the best in the state, and officered by men high in the esteem of their superiors. Soldiers in the Company are clean, companionable young men. They come from the factory and store, the farm and college, to do their bit in this struggle to uphold the good old U. S. honor and relieve the oppressed."

Your name on a postal addressed to Sergt. Lester L. Witham, or better still, a personal interview at the armory will give more detail. Young man, you are needed.

Wm. J. Pond, item: Hon. Charles J. Noyes, Augusta Seaver and W. H. Richmond, proprietor of the "Hotel Flower," in Boston, were at the Glen Mt. House over Sunday. These gentlemen are part owners of the Mt. Zion Mineral Spring property and are to put up a fine hotel near their famous spring.

Wm. M. Shaw and wife, W. L. Jackson and wife of South Paris, are at Metlakelch Point on a fishing trip.

H. H. Greene, C. W. Chase and I. N. Small are at the Andover Camp, Richardson Lakes.

Capt. M. Sampson hauled in two red spots while trolling on the lake last week, the pair tipping 5 pounds. Roland McCormack secured a beauty weighing $\frac{3}{4}$ pounds. B. F. Wilder of New York is expected June 6 for a whirlwind angling trip.

The Misses Stella and Helen Pike went to Old Orchard, Monday morning, where they have a cottage. They also plan to visit friends in Boston and elsewhere.

Regular meeting of Oxford Lodge, F. and A. M., No. 18, in Masonic Hall this Friday evening. Work in the P. O. degree.

Material is on the spot for swings at the lower primary school. A tall flag pole has also been secured that will be set later.

Norway Parent-Teachers' Association
The annual meeting of the association, which is the last until September, was held in the high school building, Friday evening, May 25, and largely attended. As president, Mrs. Herman L. Bartlett, was unable to attend, Supt. True C. Morrill occupied the chair. Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Edith M. Knight. The following officers for the next school year were nominated by the chair and elected: President, Mrs. Herman L. Bartlett; vice president, Mrs. Lena Andrews; refreshment committee for September, Mrs. L. Fred Pike, Mrs. Chas. W. Chick, W. A. Lewis; entertainment committee, Florence Riddout, Rev. H. L. Nichols, Mrs. W. P. Jones; secretary and treasurer, Edith M. Knight.

Prof. George Yeaton spoke on "Food Conservation and Agriculture." To combat high prices and fortify the home against a winter food shortage, he recommended wholesale canning by the latest methods. A University of Maine demonstrator could be secured to give practical instruction with the new cooking methods. This method is being demonstrated throughout the state before granges, school teachers and citizen associations. Prof. Yeaton declared that Oxford county should fall into line for more seed in proportion to our population than any county in the state.

Supt. Morrill was willing to act on the matter and will invite the citizens of South Paris, Oxford, Otisfield and other adjoining towns to a free demonstration, data to be announced later.

Elizabeth McCreary, supervisor of music and drawing, had a large representation from the primary departments, through all grades to the juniors, and an interesting musical program was given. The vocal work was a revelation as few parents realize the importance of voice culture in school, believing it to be a useless side line. It was surprising to hear the little folks with the victrola, also unaccompanied singing the kindergarten songs with expression that indicates painstaking labor for the supervisor and teachers. The two part work from the fifth grade was well executed. Program:

Primaries
Mother Goose Song with victrola.
Hickory Dickory Dock.
Shoemaker's Song.
Third Grade
May Song.
Tully Song.
Fourth Grade
Battle Hymn of Republic with victrola.
Little Dutchman.
Fifth Grade

Rev. George Graham of South Bridgton delivered an instructive address "Conservation of the Child." Begin with the infant, first build a strong physical body with proper exercise and food. At the proper time develop the mind rationally by leading the child gradually from simple to complex. Develop the good element through moral instruction and not the bad. Conserve the child's purity, a sacred duty falling on every parent that begins early and unfolds as the tender mind becomes receptive to its meaning. Develop the spiritual natures, teaching reverence with love for God and the church. Gain the child's confidence by being truthful in all things and the advancement will surely follow.

Refreshments were served to all under the direction of the committee, Stephen Cummings, Mrs. Percy H. Nevers and Elton L. Brown.

A well arranged exhibit including kindergarten scissors work, crayon and pencil drawings received a large patronage and favorable comment. The three primary schools entered neatly executed cut out and mounted geometrical forms, animal and fruit pictures. The Esquimo village scene of cotton batting ice fields, islands, seals and inhabitants, with puppets and sleds, illustrated the scene of the work in this department. An Indian village of lichens, evergreen and common material everywhere at hand, was an ingenious combination.

Samples of raffia weaving, embroidery on huck towels, fine stencilling on banners and hand bags were noticeable. Book cover designs, mechanical drawing and shading with a fruit study in colors, "Steep Falls Grocery Store" were conspicuous. The work done in the Crockett Ridge school was a praiseworthy effort and testified to the scholars' versatile ability.

At a meeting of the board of managers and the executive committee of the Maine branch of the National Congress of Mothers and Parent Teacher associations at Augusta, Mrs. Williams F. Jones of Norway, the vice president, was elected president, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Delbert W. Adams of Augusta.

A number from the seventh, eighth and ninth grades with Mary E. Dresser, enjoyed a high school evening over Pleasant street to the end of Horner's Lane. Several Boy Scouts had a fire lighted when the party arrived, so that frankfurters were roasted and served with the basket picnic supper. A camp fire gathering followed after lunch with stories and a general good time.

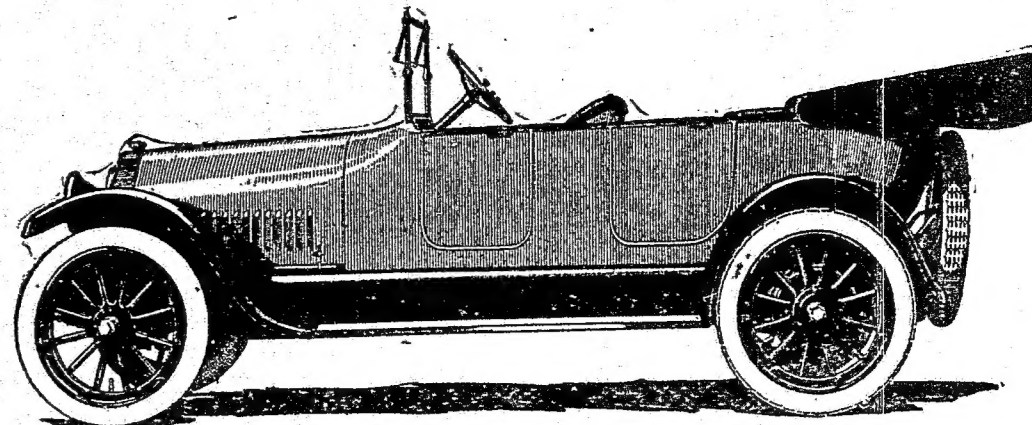

Mr. and Mrs. William Stone, Mrs. Ida Everett, Mrs. Fay Everett and son, Donald, were in Saco, Sunday, visiting Private Henry Stone and other boys of Company D. Mosquitoes and colds have a grip on the soldiers, several being off duty. Nothing serious has thus far developed and the fellows are in excellent spirits.

Return to His Home Town

The farm on Pike's Hill owned by Walter Russ, known as the Asa Frost farm has been purchased by Richard E. Clement of Ellsworth, N. J. Mr. Clement who has for many years taught in the schools at New Jersey, is to retire on a teacher's pension and is planning to locate permanently in Norway. He is to build a bungalow on the ledge above the farm house at the Four Corners, which his immediate family will occupy. The old house will be occupied by the family of the keeper. Mr. Clement received his early education in the Norway schools coming here when a young boy with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Enoch Clement. He has a cottage at the Lake, where he has spent his summers and which will be occupied by his daughter and family during the summer.

Daisy Baker's Mother Says

For Economy's Sake
Use More Flour and Less Meat

A 24 1/2-lb. sack of William Tell Flour contains more real food value than 38 lbs. of beef sirloin or 31 lbs. of pork loin. The beef sirloin at 28 cents a pound costs $10.64; the pork loin at 25 cents a pound costs $7.75. The flour, even at $11.00 per barrel, costs only about $1.40.

I don't suggest flour as a substitute for meat, but these comparisons, based on government figures and average market prices, certainly prove that it is economy to use more flour. You can do your part toward cutting the cost of living by ordering a sack of William Tell Flour and doing your own baking.

You'll save in actual cost per loaf, and the bread will taste so much better that you'll eat more of it and thus save on meat and other more expensive foods. Try it and see.

Use WILLIAM TELL Flour

Sold under a triple guarantee. Guaranteed under the Ohio Better Flour Label, by the Ansted & Burk Company, who make it, and by the grocer who sells it.

United States Liberty Loan Bonds
Where does the money come from and where does it go?

Technically, no cash or currency is theoretically involved. The transaction is primarily one of credits. That is, a subscriber for a government loan transfers a portion of his credit balance for the government's use and the government in turn transfers it in payment for its purchases from our various industries.

These industries promptly transfer the credits again to their employees and as the amounts are returned again for circulation through the various business and public channels they are the same credits which become re-established and available for every citizen. The effect of the operation of this economical principle is to quicken the circulation of so-called money and give employment to idle funds.

This stimulates all forms of business activity. Each expenditure as made by the government makes possible greater prosperity for us all. The government virtually becomes sponsor for the proposed expenditures for the welfare of all its citizens and acts as the trustee for the money of each subscriber to the Loan.

The purchaser of the Liberty Loan bonds creates an asset for himself which makes him richer rather than poorer, for he has merely loaned or invested his money and he has not spent it with any risk since he is certain to receive a satisfactory return of his principal and interest for every penny he advances.

Ed Wilkes, the stallion owned by H. P. Millett of South Paris will make the season of 1917 at his stable on Gothic street. See adv.

DIRT TEST FOR MILK

For many persons and in many situations the dirt test is the best of all tests for determining the cleanliness or lack of cleanliness of the dairy. For one thing the test is simple, easy to make and requires little apparatus. Any woman can make it. It consists in straining a small quantity of milk through cheesecloth and absorbent cotton and noting the amount of dirt left on the cotton.

A very good, simple method of making the test is as follows. Take a clean funnel. Place layer of cheesecloth at the interior of the funnel. On this cheesecloth at the bottom of the funnel lay a layer of clean absorbent cotton. Shake a bottle of milk thoroughly. Filter the milk—one pint. Examine the cotton for sediment.

There are several pieces of apparatus on the market for making this test. They consist of pumps for making a vacuum in the bottle into which the milk is being filtered, pumps for forcing the milk through the filter under pressure, or means of keeping the filtering milk warm. Such apparatus hastens the process and is, therefore, desirable for persons who must test many samples in a day. The housewife, the restaurant keeper, and the small dealer make the test without any of this machinery.

The test shows the amount of gross filth in the milk. It tells whether the milkman washed his hands before he milked, whether the cow's udders were cleaned, whether the cow switched any filth from her flanks into the pail and whether the utensils were clean.

These facts are worth while knowing. It is well that the consumer should be able to sit at home and through this test keep watch of the dairyman.

She must not be disappointed when she learns that the test, has its limitations. In the large cities it is misleading, because the large dealers in such cities remove the gross dirt from the milk before they market it. The thousands of housewives who buy milk in the villages, towns and smaller cities will find that their milk dealers do not remove the gross dirt from milk before marketing it.

Nor must they be disappointed when they find that they cannot judge of the number of bacteria in milk by the amount of sediment found on the cotton. Mr. Campbell of the dairy division of the department of agriculture has just proven that. For instance, he found that one milk which the dirt test showed to be fair contained 2,690,000 bacteria to each fifteen drops. Whereas milk which the dirt test showed to be bad contained only 185,000 bacteria to each fifteen drops.

A good many observations proved that we could not judge of the bacteria by the amount of gross dirt in the milk. Evidently the test is a good one as to measure and other filth; it is a poor one as to bacteria.

Another disappointing finding by Mr. Campbell was that filtering out the dirt did not lessen the number of bacteria. In spite of these shortcomings the dirt test is a valuable test for milk.

Eggs Six Cents A Dozen, Century Ago

Chester Knipe of North Wales, Penn., has compiled some interesting data setting forth what it cost our forefathers a century ago to live. At that time potatoes sold at 30 cents a bushel, a coffin was made for $7.50 and 25 cents was charged to mail a letter.

Some of the data is obtained from an old ledger kept by David O. Kulp, founder of Kulpville, near North Wales, from 1813 to 1894.

Some of the interesting prices shown follow: In 1813 sugar was 20 cents a pound; coffee was 25 cents a pound and molasses $1.25 a gallon.
Calico was 33 cents a yard, cotton flannel 25 cents and a handkerchief cost 55 cents. Shoes for adults cost $1.50 a pair and for children 50 cents. Candles cost 22 cents a pound, tobacco 12½ cents a pound.
About 1815 oats sold at 50 cents a bushel, eggs sold from 6 to 12 cents a dozen, and butter brought from $1.50 to $1.00 a pound. Pork was 4 cents, veal 5 cents, beef 6 cents a pound. Flour was 4 cents a pound.

A farm hand was paid 50 cents a day excepting in the harvest season when 60 cents was paid.

APPLYING POTATO FERTILIZERS

It has always been more or less customary the fertilizer in the drill or hill at the time of planting. This was largely the practice when farm manures were used in connection with potato growing and has been followed with commercial fertilizers. Although manures, when farm manures are used in connection with potatoes they are more likely to be applied broadcast and a smaller amount of fertilizer applied in the drill. There was little question in the minds of practical growers that when 500 to 1000 pounds of fertilizer were applied per acre that it was to be best advantage to apply it in the drill. With the increase up to 1,500 to 2,000 pounds per acre the question has arisen whether it may not be advisable to apply the fertilizer at different times. This led the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station to undertake a series of trials at Aroostook Farm.

In 1914 all experiment was started to extend over a period of several years for the purpose of testing the method of applying fertilizer. In each year the fertilizer used was high grade carrying 4 per cent nitrogen, 8 per cent available phosphoric acid and 7 per cent potash. One-third of the nitrogen was in the form of nitrate of soda and the remainder high grade organic. The yields are based upon weights and not upon measure. In 1916 duplicate plots of approximately ¼ acre each were planted by each method.

Two different methods have been used. To one set of plots all the fertilizer was applied in the planter. To another set 1000 pounds per acre was applied in the planter and 500 pounds at the first cultivation. To a third set 1000 pounds was applied broadcast before planting and 500 pounds at the first cultivation, and to the fourth set the full 1500 pounds was applied broadcast before planting.

The results obtained in 1914 and 1915 are reported in detail in Bulletin 246. The yields per acre obtained in 1916 are as follows:

Applying Potato Fertilizers.....Yraosfa...
1500 pounds in planter.....144 barrels (395 bushels)
1000 pounds in planter; 500 pounds at cultivation.....140 barrels (384 bushels)
1000 pounds broadcast; 500 pounds at cultivation.....138 barrels (380 bushels)
1500 pounds broadcast.....131 barrels (360 bushels)

These results indicate that the best yields are obtained when all or a large part of the fertilizer is applied in the planter. The results this year are much more marked than in the two preceding years. In fact the results of the first two years indicated that there was little to choose between the methods so far as yield was concerned.

The average yield for the 3 years 1914-1916 during which this experiment has been carried on are as follows:
1500 pounds in planter.....128 barrels
1000 pounds in planter; 500 pounds at cultivation.....124 barrels
1000 pounds broadcast; 500 pounds at cultivation.....122 barrels
1500 pounds broadcast.....119 barrels

From these results it seems quite clear that fully as good if not better yields are obtained by applying all of the fertilizer in the planter. As this method is much cheaper and more convenient than any of the others it is the one to be recommended. It seems that at least up to 1500 pounds per acre nothing is to be gained by broadcasting fertilizer before planting or by applying a part at the first cultivation.

Silver Threads Among the Gold

Eben E. Rexford died October 18, and though he was the author of many wonderful songs and poems (we have published a number of them), almost every notice of his death said, "Mr. Rexford is known as the writer of 'Silver Threads Among the Gold.'" It was a common-place little ballad that made Eben E. Rexford famous.

I have no doubt that Mr. Rexford wrote some of his work with the hope that it would live long after he himself was dead. (Every writer, almost, has that hope.) Some of the work is fine enough to live! And I have scarcely any doubt that he wrote "Silver Threads Among the Gold" simply as an experiment, simply to please himself, simply because he wanted to write it. And yet it is that song, played on barrel-organs sung by thousands, that has made people love him—that will make people remember him.—The Christian Herald.

HISTORY OF FRYEBURG

One night when the drowsy Gods of slumber failed to obey me, of course my mind was still active, and the following historical jottings came to mind. I am only writing of what I know.

When the Academy had been in use fifty years the people of the village gave what was called a great celebration and all the pupils who had been to school generally, but whoever is hit must take it pleasantly. There was a teacher there and he had attended her school. I think she was considered a very good teacher, although very severe; so this was what he said: "The switch and ferule Oh, how it tingle, but there is none that exceeds that of Mistress Ingalls." The most of them enjoyed the humor, as she was quite well known. In the evening they visited the grounds of the Academy and had a very pleasant time.

Many years after that while it was fashionable to advance the cause of education a number of teachers and friends came from Boston to the village to hold a Teachers' Institute. They had plenty of followers, book agents, publishers and many others. One of the lecturers said they came down expecting to find a backward lot of schools, but he also had the grace to say they were happily disappointed. They certainly should not have gone to Fryeburg for I am sure no town in the State had had better schools.

It was one of the prettiest villages in the State and as aristocratic as possible. There were then two churches, now there are three. There was very little scandal and very little gossip. The old Congregational Church at the farther end of the village was an over-grown structure, not a credit certainly. The Methodist was a modern and built of stone in the heart of the village, and although its parishioners were of the old stock the members never seemed to mingle. The Swedenborgian must have secured their membership from both the older.

The Academy was under the supervision of the Orthodox, and is, I think, today. I have not been there for many years. I don't expect many of the old residents are living. I correspond with some occasionally and would like much to go again.

Business has always seemed quiet there and it has been quite a mystery how the village flourished. Of course the professionals could prosper and there were three doctors; two or three lawyers; Dr. Burrows, Dr. Fowle and Dr. Griswold. Lathrop, Church and Sawyer and Bradley. The doctors had a good practice, riding to many of the surrounding towns.

The old Pond called the "Jockey Cap" was always a pleasant resort, just a short distance out. Lovell's Pond is another attractive sheet of water some three miles away. This is a divergence from the history; still it is in connection with its inhabitant, Lewis Osgood, Esq. It was customary when the Legislature was in session at Augusta for certain friends to make them a visit, I presume only to see if they were well taken care of and earning their pay, and expecting a good time. Mr. Osgood was the Representative from our district which comprised some other towns. One evening they went out to take an airing. On their return, as they had been imbibing quite freely they were somewhat tired, so when they entered their sleeping room, Mr. Osgood slipped onto the bed, boots on. One friend said, "Squire of Fryeburg, Lew, I'll pull off your boots, and pulling off the boots slid under the bed." There he lay to have his boots removed by some other friend. Thus ended the first lesson. The people of and near Fryeburg claimed great culture. This happened about three miles from there. An itinerant peddler stopped at a house to inquire the way to the village, and this was the answer by one of the females: "You ascend, and descend, and Fryeburg village is in view." So much for culture, and the schoolmaster did not live there, culture of the back woods, no telephones, no victrolas in those days.

Note—The above was written by a lady, 89 years old. She was a native of Denmark and a graduate of Fryeburg Academy. She wrote it a short time before she passed away.

Bangor Man Tells How Miserable Bilious Condition Makes You Feel

"Tanlac relieved me of biliousness and gave me a good appetite and toned up my stomach to digest the good meals," happily declared W. H. Hart, of 189 Pearl street, Bangor. Mr. Hart is a millwright with the E. M. Company in South Brewer.

"I suffered from stomach trouble quite a long time," Mr. Hart explained. "My food did not digest and this finally caused the biliousness. Anybody who has been bilious for a long time knows just how miserable it makes you feel and how quickly it starts that tired, run down feeling. Your food is not digesting and you get nervous and lose sleep."

"I heard so much about Tanlac and so many of my friends were taking it that I decided to try it and it straightened me right up. It relieved me of the biliousness and gave me a good appetite."

Stomach trouble and biliousness lead to the nervous exhaustion that is known as a general run down condition," said the Tanlac Man. "Tanlac, the reconstructive tonic is designed to create real digestion, and the run down condition and build strength through blood and tissue."

Tanlac now is being specially introduced in Norway at F. P. Stone's drug store. There is a Tanlac agent in every Maine town. Nearby Tanlac agents are South Paris, C. H. Howard; Harrison, Eugene Tenney; Bridgton, F. E. Stevens; Watford, L. R. Rounds; East Watford, R. E. Pinkham; West Paris, S. T. White.

MEDICINES, LIKE MEN, HAVE CHARACTER

From their fine outward appearance, through the various elements of strength that go to make up the standing of a remedy, including the final and absolute test—does it "make good"?—does it cure?—Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pepton Pills conclusively prove every day that they are medicines of the highest character.

Hood's Sarsaparilla originated in a physician's successful prescription. Pepton Pills, named from pepsin and iron, include also nux and other valuable tonics.

For scrofula, eczema, humors, boils, pimples and other eruptions—for loss of appetite, indigestion and dyspepsia—for kidney and liver troubles—for loss of appetite, that tired feeling—for brain-fag, nerve exhaustion, anemia and poor, thin blood—Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pepton Pills make the ideal course of medicine, the former to be taken before meals, the latter after.

BRYANT'S POND

South Paris, Me., April 2nd, 1917.

The Boston Post of Feb. 14, 1917, gives an account of "The biggest statue in the world representing a human being, larger even than the biggest metal statue, was discovered almost by chance in one of the dense forests of Burma. Railroad prospectors hewing their way through the luxuriant jungle noticed at one side a long mound overgrown with the lush of tropical vegetation. The contractor needed laterite, a rotted rock common in hot countries, and it seemed probable that there would be a large supply in the mound. So he ordered the native workmen to slash through the jungle growth and find out what was beneath. It did not take long for the laborers to uncover a hard rounded object which was evidently the handiwork of man. The contractor's curiosity was aroused and he superintended the work of excavation to make certain that whatever was concealed there should not be damaged. Slowly, foot by foot the outlines of a colossal brick figure were revealed 180 feet long and 46 feet in height at the shoulder. The most diligent inquiry among the natives and the most thorough search of the archives have failed to reveal anything about the history of this strange and enormous statue."

It is evidently a very ancient statue, and it is also evident that it is the statue of the goddess Diana of the Ephesians mentioned in the 19th Chapter of the Acts, "whom all Asia and the world worshipped."

It should be known that the Goddess Diana of the Romans and the Goddess Diana of the Ephesians are two different goddesses. In India at the foot of the Himalayan mountains near the river Jumna stands a very ancient temple containing a life size statue of the Goddess Diana, holding in her arms the statue of a little child, there are writings on tablets in the Sanscrit language, which are the sacred writings, or the bible of the ancient Hindus, dating away back into the dark ages, 3000 years B. C. The picture of that child, grown to a man can be seen in Myer's history page 331. The inscription at the bottom is a forgery, it is the picture of a Hindu whose father is said to have been a shepherd.

The picture of the Christ can be seen in the illustrated bible which have come down to this age from those painted when He lived on the earth. His father was a carpenter. The Great Teacher taught a perfectly natural and scientific religion. The word miracle is a fraud, it is misleading. Hindu mythology which strangely mixed with the truth in the A. D. 325 has caused confusion which now exists, for the reason that the revision of the Bible yet remains unfinished. "There is one thing before which, everything else must bow, and that is truth."

It is of but little use to ask for any blessings from above until the words of Christ as expressed in St. John 15th, 7th, are complied with. Those words mean more even to this world than most people can conceive of, one of the greatest blessings will be the restoration to health and happiness of every person afflicted with any kind of a disease.

Cold Spring 18-15-16

The spring and summer of 1815 and 1816 as recorded in Noyes' History, was one of unusual cold and drought. The spring was very cold and backward, there were snow squalls on the 7th, 8th and 9th days of June and plowed ground actually froze in many places. It seems, that the spring of 1815 was so very cold and backward that on the 18th of May a snow storm commenced and the next morning the snow was 18 inches deep on an average. It was on the 19th of May 1815 that the funeral of Charles Stevens, the oldest son of Nathaniel Stevens, took place and people had hard work to get to the funeral in sleighs on account of the snow, but the sun shining out warm carried it off quickly.

On the 7th of June, James Flint, Jeremiah Staples and Joshua Young of Greenwood set out with a large raft of mill logs intending to take them down the pond to the mill. The morning was still, but by the time they had reached the middle of the pond, squalls began to rise and the wind was soon blowing a gale. Their raft went to pieces, each was succeeded in striding a log, and in this perilous situation floated down the pond, a distance of 2 miles with the waves breaking over them. When they reached the shore, they were so chilled and benumbed they could hardly stand. The corn crop of 1816 in this vicinity was light because of pests and seed corn toward spring was worth $3 and more per bushel.

"I am quite aware of the customary advice not to run the car on a deflated tire, but that is less injurious for a distance of seven or eight rods than to set the brakes when the tire is flat and perhaps drag it on the road when it is in no condition to resist the strain."
